THE OUTSIDER

THE Evening Telegraph observes that

The Progressives . . . are in the position of the man who is on the outside looking in, and so, of course, they can offer advice freely.

Isn't it a bit unbecoming for a loyal organ of the erstwhile Republican party to make invidious remarks about people who are "on the outside looking in?" A casual inspection of the election returns of Noveniber, 1912- the latest and therefore the most authoritative shows that of all the lonesome outsiders in the political world the Republicans are the ionesomest and the farthest outside, save only the Socialists and the Prohibitionists.

Bear in mind, neighbor, that the Progressive party is the sees * party in the state and nation, and, therefore, has a perfectly valid right to "offer advice freely," such as is not possessed by a rank Repub-Bean outsider.

SANITATION IN THE PHILIPPINES

THE most noteworthy work done by the American army in the last fifteen years is in a f'eld only remotely related to milltary activities. But it has done the work so well that it has become famous the world over as the most successful sanitary organization in existence. Its work began in Cuba in 1898. The army itself had suffered tremendous losses from sickness cared by unsanitary conditions in camp. Auter to A neckars took possession of Havans the first task was to make it habitable. Yellow fever, which from the beginning of time had been the curse of the island, gradually lost its terrors, and today Cuba is as healthful a place as any spot on the American continent, with a death rate no higher than that of our own cities.

The story of how the army engineers successfully dealt with the even greater problem of making Panama habitable is one of the most familiar and important chapters in the history of the canal. The French effort to build a waterway across the isthmus failed more because of inability to cope with malaria and yellow fever than because of the engineering and financial difficulties. It is literally true that a death occurred in Panama for every tie placed in the railway, and every victim succumbed to tropical diseases which the Americans have proved to be preventable by perfect

Like results have been achieved by the - army in the Philippines. There has been a gradual reduction of the death rate in Manila since the beginning of the American occupation. That this splendid work is being steadily maintained is shown by a recent report. For the first six months of last year the death rate in Manila ranged from 23 to 25 for each 1,000 of population. The average death rate for the five preceding years was from 32 to 40 per 1000 of population. This reduction has been made in the face of untold difficulties due to the ignorance of the natives. It is not easy to force them to stop the use of volluted water, nor is it much easier, when an epidemic of typhoid occurs, to convince them that it is the result of using bad water

The lesson of these achievements has been learned by other nations, and the ultimate result will be that all tropical countries will become as healthful as the tem--perate zones. And the credit will belong to the American army.

POSTAL BANK DEPOSITS

COSTMASTER-GENERAL BURLESON deserves credit for instilling more life into his department than it possessed before. There is a prevalent belief that the department by always been inefficiently run, chiefly because it always finishes the year with a big deficit. Mr. Hitchcock, in the last year of his term, managed to show a salt surplus, but it was afterwards found that this was accomplished by peculiar methods of bookkeeping rather than he 「 あったるででははなった。 まごうべい (いか) the unprecedented that of making his accounts balance at the end of the year remains to be seen, but at any rate he has greatly improved the service. By reper's edly increasing the weight limit on parcel post packages and reducing the rates, he has made that service an effective competiter of the express companies. The test came during the holiday season, and despite the newness of the organization the tremendous volume of business was handled with celerity and safety. .

Now Mr. Burl --- n has turned his attention to the postal savings banks, and has made a recommendation, which, if accepted by Congress, will add much to their usefulness. Under the law the postal banks cannot receive deposits of more than $100 from one individual. This provision was made to prevent the postal banks from injuriously affecting the business of private savings banks. But it has been found that the postal banks deal with an entirely different clientele and one which will not patronize the private banks anyway. It is largely made up of foreigners who are suspicious of private institutions and who will entrust their money only to the Government. Many of them want to keep sums larger than $100 on deposit; so many, in fact, that Mr. Burleson estimates that by increasing the maximum limit of accounts to $1,000 there would be an increase of fully $75,000,000 in the total of deposits.

This large sum would virtually be so much new wealth brought into the channels of trade, for it is now withdrawn from circulation. It is money which is either kept hidden under the mattress or in an old stocking or sent back to Europe by its alien owners. And since there is no reason to fear that the change in the law would injuriously affect private banks it is probable that Congress will increase the limit.

Forty new members added to the Chamber of Commerce would bring the total list up to 1,000. The membership committee intends to get them before tonight. If you are not already enrolled as one of the paying supporters of this useful organization why not make it the first order of today's business to send in your
